Headline:
A day of sunshine and showers.

Today:
A cold start for some but sunny spells soon recovering temperatures, enough to develop showers from late morning, with some turning heavier for the afternoon. Highest temperatures in east, particularly around coasts where they will be markedly up from yesterday.

Tonight:
Showers dying away during the evening, leaving the vast majority dry overnight with clear skies. However cloud thickening in Hebrides bringing the chance of some rain before dawn. Winds light.

Wednesday:
Sunshine and showers again, but outbreaks more frequent and heavier, with some thunderstorms appearing, chiefly away from the far east and to the north of the Central Belt. Light winds.

Outlook for Thursday to Saturday:
Continuing with the showery theme, but becoming more unsettled with outbreaks quite frequent, also merging to longer periods of rain sporadically, which turns heavy at times.
